Week ending 6th September 2024

Dear Parent/Carers,

Welcome back. I hope you all had a lovely summer!

The children have returned ready for school and settled back in immediately. The buzz of learning has returned and there are big smiles on the faces of our pupils and staff.

This week, our new Reception pupils have been attending part time. Many thanks to their parents and carers, who have done an amazing job in getting them “school ready” over the summer. They have been joyful and inquisitive during their time in school and we are very excited to welcome them into school full time next week.

Two of our pupils completed a summer holiday project around “being thankful”. Jethro and Josiah decided to recreate their home. They were able to tell me how thankful they felt that their family had a house to live in and talked me through what they had created and how. Great effort boys and thank you for bringing “your home” in to show me.

As with every start of the year, I had the pleasure of announcing in our worship session this morning, who the new Year 6 responsibilities were being awarded to. It was a really difficult decision this year – but please see the results and photos below.

Well done to all of our Year 6’s who requested a role. Remember you are now role models for the school and must continue to set the example!

We are holding our first PTA meeting on Monday morning at 8:45am. Any parent/carer who has a pupil at All Saints’ is invited to attend. We will be setting the dates for all fundraising events this academic year – so please join us if you are available.

This year I would love to continue our Parent Forum sessions. We meet once every half term, usually on a Wednesday afternoon. If anyone is interested in joining the parent forum, and representing your child’s class, please contact the school office. It would be lovely to have more parents onboard.

Wishing you a happy & safe weekend.
